

Important information for students attending Lorenzo de' Medici (the fine print!)

Fees

After you pay regular Berry tuition, Berry is billed for & pays the following LdM charges:

- * Tuition
- * A 6th class, should you decide to take one
- * One program field trip (not course-related)

Many courses require lab and materials fees, which must be paid by you upon arrival at LdM. Berry will credit your lab fees to your tuition account once your transcript is received; however, you are responsible for all materials fees. Keep in mind that studio art courses, particularly photography, are especially expensive. Photography also requires your own camera.

Some courses require field trips. Berry will credit your tuition account the amount of the course trip fee when you return to Berry. This is separate from the program weekend excursion Berry pays for. Any additional costs associated with the course field trip (transportation, food, etc.) cannot be reimbursed by Berry.

All fees will be determined by the course list sent to us by LdM. If there is a discrepancy, you may confirm the fee amount by submitting the appropriate course syllabus. Payments by Berry to LdM plus reimbursements to you will not exceed the price of Berry's semester tuition rate.

Courses

In most cases, your course registration will be confirmed before you leave for LdM, so you will know which classes you will be taking. While selecting your courses, we will keep you posted on course cancellations as we hear about them. Courses offered are attached to this packet. Course descriptions can be printed off the LdM course catalog, which can be linked from:

Once you arrive at LdM, you have 1 week to make any schedule changes. If you find you must change to a course that has not been approved, please email the change and new course description to Ms. Egerer immediately at segerer@berry.edu. She will forward the change to your adviser and the appropriate department faculty for their approval and inform you of their decision. Even if you make no changes to your schedule, you must email Ms. Egerer with your finalized schedule within 3 days of the first day of class at LdM.

Buona Fortuna! Buon Viaggio!
