

Timberlake, Todd. "A Computational Approach to Teaching Conservative Chaos."
American Journal of Physics (2004) 72(8): 1002-1007.

Abstract. A computational approach to teaching conservative chaos that is suitable for undergraduates in an upper-level classical mechanics course is discussed. Some ways that computation can be used to facilitate the teaching of several important topics in conservative chaos are described.