WI Course Approval, Revalidation, and Removal Process

October 2011

WI-COURSE APPROVAL

Definition of Course Approval

1. Current Academic Council policy specifies that the WI designation is for a particular course, not an instructor. Thus, different faculty members teaching different sections of the same WI course need not submit individual syllabi for approval. Rather, instructors should work with their Department Chairs to make sure that WI courses are presented in the spirit of the WI approval granted to that course by the Academic Council.

2. Special Topics WI courses are ONLY approved for the semester requested in the proposal.

Please contact your school’s WAC representative if you have questions about the WI course approval or revalidation process.

1. Faculty Members Design Writing Intensive (WI) Courses

a. General Information

1. Faculty members need to participate in one of the WAC workshops offered by Berry College before teaching a WI course. At those workshops, new WI professors usually begin drafting a WI course packet, whether or not they later submit that course for approval. Before beginning work on a WI proposal, informally coordinate with your Department Chair to make sure the course fits the discipline’s curricular needs, and that it can be supported with trained instructors for the next three years. If necessity dictates that a faculty member teach a WI course before completing a workshop, the professor should rely on their Department Chair, and their school’s WAC representative to provide immediate assistance in designing their course.

2. Each WI course will contain writing tasks that actively engage students in a range of analytic and synthetic learning opportunities. At Berry and other colleges, several brief writing occasions have been found to be more effective than a few large assignments.

3. FALL DEADLINE: November 15 (or first workday thereafter) for the following Fall semester WI classes

   SPRING DEADLINE: April 15 (or first workday thereafter) for the following Spring semester WI classes

4. Submit completed proposals to one of your school’s WAC Committee Representatives.
b. Checklist for Course Proposals

☐ A description of how writing will help meet discipline-specific learning objectives and enhance student learning.

☐ A grading scheme having a minimum of 30% of the course grade based on WI elements.

☐ A listing of WI requirements such as essays, term papers, journals, case studies, projects, and lab reports, etc. A typical 300/400 level course requires a total of 16-20 double spaced pages for the WI elements.

☐ A requirement for some of the WI work to undergo a process of peer review and/or substantial revision.

☐ Sample writing prompts.

☐ Revision and scoring criteria for peer reviews and teacher evaluations.

☐ A skeletal class schedule that need only include writing due dates (or week numbers), subject to revision, showing the spread of WI assignments.

☐ A Berry College Curriculum Amendment Form (fill in blocks 1–4, 8, 10, 13, 14, 16, 19–22).

2. Evaluation by the WAC Committee

1. The School WAC Representative will forward proposals to the Operations and Records (O&R) Subcommittee of the WAC Committee, which will have the packet checked for compliance with the standards, and the spirit of the program. The central question is whether or not student learning will be enhanced by the use of WI elements in the course design. Two or more members of the WAC Committee will review the proposal independently, make suggestions, and recommend Committee approval, or not.

2. The WAC review process is prescriptive; that is, suggestions will be made by faculty peer reviewers to instructors for refinement of WI course elements. Comments will be sent directly to the faculty member(s) submitting the proposal.

3. After review, if the O&R subcommittee recommends approval of the proposal, the Committee Chair will sign the Berry College Curriculum Amendment Form in block 18.

4. The course packet and signed form will be sent to the discipline Department Chair.
3. Review and Approval by Department Chair

1. The Department Chair should consider whether or not:
   a. The writing tasks in the proposal are appropriate to the academic discipline;
   b. The course can be adequately supported for the next three years, i.e.:
      i. Will the course be taught by professors who have completed a WAC workshop?
      ii. Will there be enough professors to keep the class size down to a minimum (20 preferred)?
   c. The course fits the curriculum;
      i. Two WI courses per major are usually required for graduation;
      ii. The school faculty has considered and approved the proposed course change to WI

2. If properly approved, the Department Chair signs block 21 of the Berry College curriculum amendment form.

3. The course packet and signed form should be sent to the School Dean.

4. Approval by the School Dean

1. If the School Dean is satisfied that the proposal is consistent with the objectives, goals, and mission of the School, sign block 22 of the Berry College curriculum amendment form. If not, return the packet, along with the appropriate guidance, to the Department Chair.

2. Only the signed Berry College Curriculum Amendment Form need be sent to the Provost (ex officio Chair of the Academic Council) for presentation at the Council’s next meeting.

NOTE 1: WI proposals need to be to the Academic Council in time for the Sept. and Feb. meetings.

NOTE 2: Academic Council meets on the 2nd Tuesday each month of the Academic year.
5. Approval by Academic Council

1. If the Academic Council approves, completed copies of the Berry College Curriculum Amendment Forms will be sent to:

a. The Registrar (Secretary, Academic Council) for update of records and systems;
   b. The School Dean for appropriate notifications;
   c. The O&R subcommittee, the WAC Committee for electronic filing.

2. If not approved, the Berry College Amendment form will be sent to the School.

WI-COURSE REVALIDATION AND DELETION

6. Periodic Revalidation of WI-Designated Course

1. Recommendations for revalidation must come from departments and faculty members involved in delivering WI courses.
