

Social Media

As social media increases, consider how you can use the most effective tools to help in your internship or job search. Your future career depends on your ability to professionally market your skills, network with others and stay current in your field. Build your profile, start connecting and see what professional connections you make.

LinkedIn is a professional networking site that will allow you to present your accomplishments on-line, connect and network with Berry alumni and others who are in your field of interest.

LinkedIn has a new Job Portal for Students and Recent Graduates to help find jobs and internships.
