*The Department of Foreign Languages wishes to encourage its majors to pursue outside the major area course work which will enhance their foreign-language study. The department thus recommends those courses in the general-education sequence and in elective areas which provide an international orientation.

Majors in one of the foreign languages will take two additional courses of at least three credits each in a second foreign language (or waiver by examination), or three courses in the humanities approved by the major department, excluding courses counted toward the general-education requirements or additional courses in the major. Foreign language majors who complete a second major and / or an education minor are exempt from this requirement.
